CHEERED BY THOUSANDS

Mr. Bryan Warmly Greeted Upon His Arrival in New York.

Streets About the Grand Central Stn. tion Filled With Enthusiastic Crowds-A Rush to Shake Hands With the Nebraskau-Scenes Along the Route to the Hoffman House.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 .- The Grand Contral Station and the streets adjoining it were crowded this afternoon long before the train bearing William Jennings Bryan arrived. All the members of the reception committee were present. There were nine carriages-the first of which was occupled by Richard Croker, William R. Hearst, and James Shevlin. The fourth seat was left vacant for Mr. Bryan. At 2:45 o'clock the train rolled into the station and the cheering began. Mr. Bryan stepped from the platform of the special car, 'Rambler," immediately Lebind James Oliver, who had gone up the State to meet

Mr. Bryan was dressed in a pepper and salt suit, a lavender tie, and a slouch hat, Colonel Bryan looked in the best of health. His face gave no evidence of the tremendous amount of work he has done in the last month. His color was good, and his eye bright. In response to the cheers he took off his bat, and the next minute was shaking hands with Mr. Cro-

They could not exchange a word because the crush was so great around them that they were borne along by it toward the entrance of the station. The crowd began to cheer with renewed vigor as soon as Mr. Bryan appeared outside. As he stepped into the carriage there was another cheer, and men crowded about him to shake hands. Colonel Bryan took off his hat, stood up in the carriage and shook hands with as many as were within reach. When he stood up there was more cheering. The crowd was very dense at the entrance to the trainshed and the carriage had to go slow. All along the route men rushed out from the sidewalk and stretched out their hands for Colonel Bryan to shake. He shook as many as he could, smiling in a pleasant way all the

The carriage drove rapidly to the Hoffman House. There were a great many people on Fifth Avenue, and they gave people on Fifth Avenue, and they gave dependence years before I was a candidate for the Presidency? Who is responsitiventy-seventh Street large Chinese ble for these things? Why, if the Repubballs were exploded, and an immense crowd which had collected there cheered as the carriage passed. There were more cheers when Mr. Bryan entered the hotel. He hurried into the corridor and got in an elevator to go to his room, accompauled by some of the reception committee. Mr. Bryan met Mr. Stevenson in his room and had a talk with him.

Then Mr. Bryan received a delegation from St. Mathew's German Lutheran Church, in Brooklyn, headed by its pastor, the Rev. Gustav Sommers, Mr. Sommers, had a gold-headed cane with him. He explained to Mr. Bryan that at a recent votagainst 2,000 cast for McKinley, and that the cane was, therefore, given to him. "If I do as much work in the next four, rears as I have done in the last," he said,
"I shall need all the canes I can get. I thank you very much, indeed, for this one."
A Irlegation of reporters was then re-cerved. The first question put to him and some not, for when you once establish that doctrine you have to keep your pedigree with you all the time to show that your belong to the ruling class.

"Can a ble man thresh a little was and ed being here when the sen iment to-rd me was not so friendly as it is now, and I am enjoying it now more."

"How about Ohlo?" asked a reporter. "I do not care to say anything about pecific States," told Mr. Bryan. "I have just been through Ulimois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio, and in all of those States he torst committeer report uniform gains fer the Democratic ticket. In the counties in those States which gave Democratic an increase, and they are expecting to cut down the Republican vote in those counties which went for the Republican ticket four years ago. I find that our people are active and confident throughout the entire country. 'General Apathy' is not in command of our army. I think he has received a commission from the Republican National Committee"

"Will you take up any issues which you have not yet touched on, or will you answer any of the questions which have been put to you since your nomination, while you are in this State?"
"I do not care to forecast my speeches," said Colonel Bryan. "Will you answer the questions propounded to you by various newspapers?"

"In nearly every town I enter I find questions which have been propounded for me to answer, but I take it for granted that the editors of Republican newspapers discuss these questions in their own way and I also take it for granted that they will allow me to discuss all questions in my own way—that is, unless they get out

Later on Richard Croker informed Mr. Bryan with great positiveness that he would have the electoral votes of the State of New York. Mr. Croker said that the Republicans could not come to the city line with more than 50,000 plurality for McKinley. To offset this he said the Democrats south of the Bronx would roll up a Bryan plurality of 80,000 votes Mr. Croker said that Bryan would certainly carry the State by over 25,000. This pleased Mr. Bryan greatly.

When Mr. Bryan appeared outside the otel the crowd gave a great shout and three cheers. The candidate bowed, the fire works man on top of the Madison Square Garden touched off a particularly loud arden touched off a particularly loud omb and Mr. Bryan started for the Gar-want the army whether they had war or not? What was their reason? To protect us from the Indians? No. The less Indians we have the more soldiers the Republicans want. I believe that one of the reasons that they want a large army is to build a fort in this city and use the army to suppress by force the discontent that ought to be cured by legislation. You never voted for a large army. You never voted for a large army. You never voted for an inversely relieve and never voted for an imperial policy, and the President asked for this army before that question had ever been submitted to the American people.

"The Republicans say we are just raising a scarecrow, that we are trying to frighten the people. That may be, but, my friends, we are not telling you what may be done; we tell you what has been done. Disposing of the Filipinos. "What are they going to do with the Filipines? They are going to give them 'as large a measure of self-government as their welfare and our duties will permit." Who is to decide their welfare? We Who is to decide our duty? We. What has the Filipino to do with it? Nothing at all. They do not dare defend the plank, and I am afraid, before this campaign is over, that they will try to prove that It was not written by the Republican Convention at all, that it was put in there by some who had no authority.

"My friends, we can today do what the Republican party ought to have done, and our platform declares that we shall do it. I have declared that the first act of my Administration will be to call Congress to gether and ask it to do now what it ought to have done a year and a half ago.

"They say but for the hope of my election the Filipinos would lay down their arms in despair. They do me too much honor. They say that I have placed in the hearts of the Filipinos the rair d of foreign domination. Alexander Hamilton's Distinction. "The Republicans have no policy. We have. The nearest approach that the Republicans can come to a policy is in the Spooner resolution and it reads like this: "Resolved, That when the war is over, the President shall establish a government and maintain it until Congress takes the matter off his hande."

"Resolved, That when the war is over (nobody knows when it will be) the Presi-dent will do something (nobody knows what) and will keep at it until Congress something (nobedy knows what), That is the Republican plan. "We say treat the Fillpino as you prom-

He immediately left to attend the other meetings. A large portion of the audience followed him. Adlai E. Steven-son was then introduced, but the confu-sion was so great that it was some mo-

Mr. Bryan Briefly Addresses Twenty-five Thousand People. NEW YORK, Oct. 16.-It was a few min utes after 9 o'clock when Mr. Bryan, with his escort of mounted police, arrived at the stand in Madison Square. Here operations had begun as early as 5:45, with the firing of hundreds of multi-colored bembs. At 7 o'clock, John W. Keller, President of the Democratic Club, called the meeting to order. Fully 25,000 people were present. When Mr. Bryan arrived the band played: "Hail to the Chief," and he was given an ovation that lasted-five minutes.

He condemned the Republican party for fostering trests, and referred briefly to the Filipino question, promising, if elect-ed, to establish a government in the islands, so that their inhabitants could administer it. He again denounced the manifest purpose of the Republican party to build up a large army, and promised to give the taxpayers a smaller one yet, one which would be fully adequate to their protection and welfare.

Mr. Bryan's remarks were frequently interrupted by cheering, which constantly swelled in volume. As he bowed and moved to the rear of the stand he me ed a chair for a moment, bowed to the crowd in the park, and then, amid handshakes, red fire, and continued cheering he went to his carriage, and was whisked off to Tammany Hall.

AT TAMMANY HALL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.-Tammany Hall was packed to its utmost capacity when Mr. Bryan arrived from Madison Square The auditorium was decorated with flags and bunting. Mr. Bryan was frequently and enthusiastically cheered during his speech. He said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen: I hope you will excuse my appearance. I have been trying to talk to all the people in New York, and I am afraid that I show the effect of the exertion. But I am here for a moment to express my appreciation of the work which is being done in this campaign by this great Tammany organization. I heard of Tammany before Tammany heard of me.

"I came here several years ago, on the Fourth of July, and I was pleased to learn that this society made it a rule to celebrate the anniversary of the nation's birth. For one hundred and twenty years and more the Republican party observed the Fourth of July. But the Republican party this year was not alarmed when our nation's anniversary was used for the signing of the death warrant of two Republics.

"Could I better describe the change that has taken place in the Republican party than to tell you that the party could be so paralyzed by the policy of imperialism that it could be unconcerned at the death of Republics? If the Republican party can watch without emotion the destruction of liberty in South Africa, can it be trusted to preserve liberty in America? When this nation becomes the executioner of here is in as much danger as it is in the Philippine Islands,

"What defence did you ever hear given for the imperial policy? First, that there is money in it; second, that God is in it, and third, that we are in it and can't get out of it. Have you ever heard any other?

"The man who says that there is money in it must be prepared to tell us how much a human life is worth. Who can place a value on a human life? Who can measure the value of one human brain? Why, there are times when a nation hangs upon the genius of one citizen Who can measure the value of a human heart full of love for its fellow man? Measure, if you can, the influence of one great soul. What is a man worth? Who can say. "And yet the Republican party is today defending imperialism, and when it so defends it it must tell us the true value of the 2,000 bodies that have ficated tack across the Pacine. I want to expand our trade by every possible means, but I won't put an American boy on the auction block and sell him for all the trade

But let this nation stand erect. Let it prove that there is reality in our profes-sions and every human being struggling against oppression will raise its eyes to heaven and thank God that there is one Republic left that dares do right-a Republic upon whose flag there is no stain." The Tammany Hall meeting had been called to order at 7 o'clock. It was crowded to its full capacity in a few minutes. George T. Van Hosen presided, and John B. Stanchfield and William F.

a shrewd politician would become dictator of the State. "It is a system," he continued, "which is fast making the State of New York a dukedom with the Governor or the Gov-ernor's owner the royal master."

The excise law, he pointed out, created a vast machine whose ramifications reach-tax last year, while the work should be done by the Comptroller. Mr. Stanchfield then denounced the metropolitan elections district law, condemning it as a usurpation of power, which established a force bill operative chiefly against Dem-ocratic districts. It was an insult to New York City and saddled upon the State an expensive department costing nearly $200,-

As a further illustration of the centralization of power at Albany Mr. Stanchfield instanced the passage of a measure de-priving the surrogate's court of the countles of New York, Kings, and Erie of the power of appointment of appraisers who estimate the values of estates under the inheritance tax law. Taking up the franchise tax the speaker said:

"The franchise tax, which ought to have been enacted long ago, in order to lighter the burden upon real estate, is enforced from Albany. The people do not require nor do they wish a State board to carry its provisions into effect. They would prefer, and they ought of right to have, the power to assess corporate institutions lodged in a local board of as-nessors. The lodgment of the power of ascessment in the State board of tax commissioners placed in the hands of appointees of the Governor or Governor's owner every corporation in the State. What this means to the boss in need of funds for his campaign appears by the statement that these assessments run up to the 50,000,000 mark upon 1 single corporation. A little favoritism-a generous ampaign contribution.

Mr. Stauchfield attacked Platt's project-d State constabulary bill, and then took up the Ramapo question.

The speaker then charged the Republi-can National Administration with having failed to make use of existing laws for the suppression of trusts and illegal combi-nations, and pointed out the necessity of a law to give trust presents. a law to give trust prosecution cases the preference in all courss. He reiterated his presence in favor of labor and pointed to his record as proof. He concluded with an appeal to the independent voter to help purge the present State Government by voting for the Democratic ticket, saying

"Fellow citizens, New York of 1950 is not the New York of four years ago. The differences that divided us have long since passed away. This is the dawn of a new era. The great Democratic States of the South and West in years that are gone have contributed loyal and patriotic support to Presidential candidates from the Empire State. Let us gather together for the final battle, and place New York in the Democratic column. Out of the principles edunciated in the platform a Kansas City will come a new people. The dangerous degire for the accumulation of ill-gotten wealth will be checked. The great middle dasses, whose thrift and industry constitute the nation's strength, will have a controlling voice in the Federal Administration."

AT COOPER UNION. Mr. Bryan on the Uncertainty of the

Republienn Policy. NEW YORK, Oct. 16 .- Fourteenth Street vas literally bathed in fireworks when Mr Bryan was driven from Tammany Hall into Third Avenue, and down that thoroughfare to Cooper Union, for his las speech of the night. The route, as before was thronged with cheering people and red fire was burned galore. The Cooper Union gathering began like the others at 7 o'clock. Ex-Representative De Witt Warner presided, Long before Mr. Bryan's arrival at 10 o'clock ordinary access to the hall was practically impossible and the crowd inside was only limited by the capacity of the hall. Mr. Bryan said:

"Mr. Chairman, Ladies, and Gentlemen This is my fourth meeting for tonight. It concludes the ratification meetings held under the auspices of Tammany, and I am prepared to say: 'Great is Tammany, and Croker is its prophet.' I rejoice that I live in a land in which the people can select one of their number, however humble he may be, and make him their public servant, and when he stands not in his own strength, but in their strength, he thus becomes the greatest man in the world.

"Yet he should never forget that he is their servant. He should never forget that he acts, not for himself, but for them. He should not forget that he is but the instrument by which they accomplish their sovereign will.

"Times change and parties change, and people change; but principles do not change. The Republican party is asking those who have voted the Republican ticket in the past to change their principles in order to be in harmony with the party today. Republicans used to advocate bimetellism. Now they advocate a gold standard. They used to denounce the trusts, but now they say there are good trusts and bad trusts, and they don't those who fight for liberty, then liberty know the difference between them. It is hard, but they say they like it.

"They used to stand for a small army to be composed of a citizen soldiery. Now they want a large army. Great change from a small army to a large one. It is hard, but they say they like it. "The President in December of 1897 said that forcible annexation meant criminal aggression, and was contrary to our code of morality. Within two years the President has violated his own code of morality, and now we have 65,000 soldiery seven thousand miles away from home forcing annexation upon an unwilling people, and Republicans say it is hard, but they say they like it.

"In December, 1899, the President said it was our plain duty to give free trade to Porto Rico and all the Republicans said amen. The Secretary of War said that the highest expression of justice and good faith required it and Republicans said 'amen.' But a power rose behind the throne and fastened upon Porto Rico the same infamous policy against which our forefathers rebelled a hundred and twenty-four years ago. And now the Re-publicans are prepared to defend the Porto Rico bill and say it is our plain duty to violate our plain duty. It is hard -but they like it.

"My friends, you are not compelled to follow the Republican leaders. When the Republican leaders ask you to follow them you have a right to ask them wha they are going to do, what policy they stand for, in what direction they are go-ing. How different, my friends, is this bloody, brutal doctrine of imperialism from the Sermon on the Mount and the text. Thou shalt love thy neighbor as "I believe we are to decide now whether dectrine today to say 'sorry "It is the we got the Philippine Islands-so sorry-but we can't owe it to the Filipinos to stay there to govern them with carpetbag doctrine enforced by bayonets. My friends, if we hold the Philippine Islands in sub-Jection—if we dominate the Philippines— if we adopt a colonial policy—we cannot send any of our sacred documents there. Down in Ohio last fall I saw a picture. It represented Columbia holding aloft the flag and Mr. McKinley was pointing to the flag and beneath the picture were the 'Rally 'round the flag, boys, rally once again "That's all: the rest wasn't there 'Shouting the battle cry of freedom' was not in the song any more. Just 'rally around the flag. This is your fight. Every citizen is interested in this fight. The policies for which the Republican party stands affects all, and I want you to make it your fight, if you are with us, and carry it on until election day. We are appealing to the judgment of the people money to buy; we have no trust magnates to intimidate. All we can do is to appeal to the conscience and to the judgment and to the hearts of the American people.

"We are willing that they should go to the polls and vote what they believe, and if every citizen will make his ballot represent a free man's will, if every citizen will vote as he should vote if he knew his vote would determine this eliction, I have no doubt what the result will be. want you to make it your fight, and I want you to make the majority so large in this city and in this State and in this nation that no money can corrupt, no power can intimidate, and no force can defeat the people's will, and restore this your fathers.

Government to the foundations laid by "The Declaration of Independence is broad enough for this Government to stand upon. No matter how gr at it becomes it will never be bigger than that foundation. I would rather that the world should look to us and to imitate our example than to have the glory of a conquest that makes people bow to our might. I want this nation to stand b fore the world as a great factor in the world s progress "Let us be true to ourselves, and then thenever anywhere people shall fight for liberty we can send the voice of this nation across the ocean and say, Gled bless you; may you win your fight, until there are no kings or thrones and until liberty is known the world around," At the conclusion of his speech Mr. Bryan was hurried off to the Hoffman House, for a good night's rest to fortify himself for his campaign through the State tomorrow. The outdoor crowds still numbered thousands and they cheered the returning carriage warmly as it made its way to the hotel through an avenue of intional Candidates Welcomed and Democratic Principles Endorsed. NEW YORK, Oct. 16 .- These resolutions were adopted at the several Democratic mass meetings at Madison Square Garden, Madison Avenue and Fourteenth Street, Tammany Hall, and Cooper Union, at which Mr. Bryan spoke to-night:

"The Democracy of Greater New York joyfully welcomes to the metro-polis and the State the intrepid and steadfast leader of the National Democracy, William Jennings Bryan, and pledges to his candidacy for the Presidency of the United States its united, enthusiastic, and invincible support, "Nominated with singular unanimity to represent the cause of the plain people in the present crisis of our national affairs, at a time when it is attempted to substitute the im-perial rule of moneyed syndicates for the constitutional government of the people, when all the influence of the national Administration is exerted to foster industrial conditions that destroy the free field and fair competition in and by which individual enterprise was encouraged in Democratic times, and when our political opponents scoff at and deride the cardinal inciple of legitimate authority that all Governments derive their just powers from the consent of the gov-erned, the candidacy of Mr. Bryan is an inspiration and hope to every citizen who believes that ours should be government of the people, by the people, and for the people, under which the blessings and advantages which come to the Republic should be shared by all and not perverted to the exclusive enjoyment of the privileged few.

We greet with respect, admiration, and affection the Democratic candidate for the Vice Presidency, Adiai E. Stev-enson. His sterling Democracy, his un-daunted courage, and his sound statesmanship have once been recognized by his countrymen in their election of him by an overwhelming majority to the office for which he is again a candidate at the unanimous call of his party.

"We declare our unqualified approval of the principles embodied in the plat-form adopted by the Democratic Convention at Kansas City in July of this

In every emergency our national honor and integrity have been protected by the volunteer army of the Republic, and in the future our citizenship may be relied upon to respond to any call to arms in defence of liberty and the protection of popular rights. Trusts have no rightful place under a Government of a free people. They rob alike producer and consumer; they defy and overcome the natural governing laws of trade-supply and demand; they debar the young men of the country from every avenue of industrial op-portunity and advancement; they substitute for the individual relation of employer and employe the artificial relation of a soulless monopoly dealing with a human working machine.

"We arraign the Republican party for its treasonable intention to debauch the suffrage and buy the Presi-dency by the proffigate use of a gigantic corruption fund wrung from fat-tened monopolies nourished by its legislation and protected by its lax enforcement of the law. We believe its attempt to induce our voters to betray the country and its best interests for a bribe that is to be offered it the polls on election day to deter the citizen from registering will prove futile.

"We rely alone upon the patriotism of the people. We neither have nor desire any fund with which to be bidders at any auction of the Presidency. Our success must rest upon the votes of the loyal and intelligent citizens who can neither be purchased nor intimidated, and who are justly alarmed at the political and industrial conditions confronting them.
